DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 2/10/2009 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being incomplete for omitting essential steps, such omission amounting to a gap between the steps. See MPEP § 2172.01. The omitted steps are: process for the production of a casing.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 6, 7, 10, 12 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Patent Application Publication US 2003/0048428, Kemper et al.

In regards to claim 6, Kemper et al disclose a casing (33) with protective bellows (31, 33, 34) of a transmission device, said casing being obtained particularly by the practice of the process according to claim 1, wherein said casing is in the form of a single-piece body free from an internal axial joint plane, at least one portion of the bellows being of helicoidal arrangement, a securement section (37,38) of largest size having a passage section greater than or equal to the diameter delimited by the summit (internal) of the largest bellows, the bellows are of progressive diameter inscribed within a truncated cone, and the casing comprises at least one region adapted to either to absorb a mechanical couple during unscrewing or permit a blocking in rotation, wherein the casing comprises axial bellows and radial bellows, wherein said transmission device is a transmission joint, comprising at least two shafts movable at least one of axially and angularly relative to each other, this casing with bellows, of which at least one portion of the bellows is radial, having at each open end the section for securement to the transmission device.

Note, the method of forming the device is not germane to the issue of patentability of the device itself. Therefore, this limitation is given little patentable weight.

Further, the transmission device is not considered part of the claimed invention.

In regards to claim 7, Kemper et al disclose the radial bellows are constituted by single or multiple spiral passages.

In regards to claim 10, Kemper et al disclose the tubular body of the casing is delimited over at least a portion of it length by an undulant or folded wall, each fold corresponding to a bellows, the folds describing a helix of constant or variable pitch, preferably increasing in the direction of the securement section of largest size of the casing.

In regards to claim 12, Kemper et al disclose each securement section of the casing is constituted by at least two hi-injected materials.

Note, the method of forming the device is not germane to the issue of patentability of the device itself. Therefore, this limitation is given little patentable weight.

In regards to claim 13, Kemper et al disclose the casing comprises diametrically opposite ears disposed on the external periphery of said casing.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1 is allowed.

Claim 2 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims above have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
